

“

Rome represents the hub connecting Italy with the world, thanks to Fiumicino airport being a center of excellence, the port of Civitavecchia, the port of Gaeta and the rail network, with high-speed rail reaching into southern Lazio as well. All these infrastructures help attracting investments to our region, where we have a great presence of human capital, many universities – but also a significant share of this high-quality human capital that currently leaves our region. If we create the conditions for quality employment and major investment in our region, this human capital can come back, stay and become an accelerator of growth.
